Ethical Issues and Compliance

Ted Banks

Basic Guidance

• Compliance officers set the ethical example.
• Be prepared to be firm, but do it nicely.
• Can compliance officers & lawyers co-exist?

Since many compliance officers are lawyers . . .
Rule 1.1 Competence

A lawyer shall provide competent representation to a client. Competent representation requires the legal knowledge, skill, thoroughness and preparation reasonably necessary for the representation.

Technology and Competence – Comment 8

• ABA Model Rule: To maintain the requisite knowledge and skill, a lawyer should keep abreast of changes in the law and its practice, including the benefits and risks associated with relevant technology, engage in continuing study and education and comply with all continuing legal education requirements to which the lawyer is subject.
• Adopted in 31 states by 3/18; 32 states (Vermont joins 10/18).

Rule 1.6(c) Confidentiality of Information

A lawyer shall make reasonable efforts to prevent the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, information relating to the representation of a client.

No specific requirements, but a fact-based analysis with “a ‘process’ to assess risks, identify and implement appropriate security measures responsive to those risks, verify that they are effectively implemented, and ensure that they are continually updated in response to new developments.”
Comment 18: Security of Information

The unauthorized access to, or the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of, information relating to the representation of a client does not constitute a violation of paragraph (c) if the lawyer has made reasonable efforts to prevent the access or disclosure. Factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of the lawyer’s efforts include, but are not limited to, the sensitivity of the information, the likelihood of disclosure if additional safeguards are not employed, the cost of employing additional safeguards, the difficulty of implementing additional safeguards, the importance of the information in the prevention of the commission of a crime, the safeguards maintained by the client, the importance of maintaining the confidentiality of the information, and whether the information was already known by the public. A client may require the lawyer to implement special security measures not required by this Rule or may give informed consent to forgo security measures that would otherwise be required by this Rule. Whether a lawyer is required to take additional steps to safeguard a client’s information in order to comply with other laws, such as state and federal laws that govern data privacy or that impose notification requirements upon the loss of, or unauthorized access to, personal information, is beyond the scope of these Rules.

Does security breach = loss of privilege since information no longer confidential?

- 4th Amendment: Can’t use evidence illegally seized by gov’t.

- Could use evidence illegally obtained by private individual?

  - Panama Papers: hack occurred outside the US, gov’t not involved

- Inadvertent disclosure: no waiver

- Carelessness in security: waiver?

Lawyers AS Phishing Bait

- Ethical as well as financial risk
- In-house counsel who wired $40,000 of an owed settlement to a routing number sent by scammers posing as the plaintiffs.
- Title company escrow agents duped by e-mails using the same greetings and in-jokes their actual clients use.
- 2013: Ring of scammers posing as clients bilked more than $70 million from attorneys across the United States and Canada.
- Check before sending money!
Technology and Compliance

- Do you know the compliance implications of these technologies?
  - Blockchain? Who is getting paid?
  - IoT? My refrigerator is watching me
  - Cross-device tracking? My phone is talking to my iPad
  - Artificial intelligence: My medical diagnosis was wrong
  - Automation: Fake Facebook/Twitter accounts since no humans watching

- Do you have a system in place to review compliance issues each time a new type of technology is adopted? Does each system have its own ethical standards?

- To the extent you have any new technology in place, is there a way for it to communicate with people, or for people to monitor/control?

Technology and Consumers:
Entities with direct consumer-facing relationships and those working in cross-device tracking behind the scenes need to:

1. truthfully disclose tracking to consumers and business partners;
2. offer consumers choices about how their cross-device activity is tracked;
3. obtain consumer affirmative express consent before engaging in cross-device personalization in a privacy-sustained manner and before collecting and sharing precise geolocation information; and
4. maintain reasonable security to avoid future unexpected and unauthorized uses of data.

Rule 1.2(d): Can’t assist client in conduct known to be criminal or fraudulent

- Marijuana legal in some form in 31 states, but still illegal under the controlled substances act, 21 U.S.C. sec. 812(b)(1)
- Comment 9-A “critical distinction between presenting an analysis of legal aspects of questionable conduct and recommending the means by which a crime or fraud might be committed with impunity.”
- Feds previously left enforcement to states. Now? Yes? No?
What to do when the client insists on doing what you think is wrong?

Model Rule 1.13, SOX § 307

[W]hen the lawyer knows that the organization is likely to be substantially injured by action of an officer or other constituent that violates a legal obligation to the organization or is in violation of law that might be imputed to the organization, the lawyer must proceed as is reasonably necessary in the best interest of the organization. . . . (check state variants)

---

Can GC be Whistleblower?

Wadler v. Bio-Rad Laboratories

- 212 F. Supp. 2d 829 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 20, 2016)
- SOX preempts Calif. ethical rules regarding disclosure of privileged info
- Lawyer can use privileged info as basis for retaliation claim
- SEC agrees: Rule 205.3(d)(2)
  - Viol or circumvent law
  - Perjury
  - Substantial injury
- Jury (Feb. 2017)
- $11 million awarded for whistleblower retaliation
- Claimed retaliation for reporting China bribery
- Judgment confirmed (May 2017)
- On appeal to 9th Cir.

---

Erhart v. Bofi Holding, Inc.,

- Internal auditor filed whistleblower retaliation claim under SOX & Dodd-Frank.
  - Counterclaim of violation of Calif. Law by sharing confidential information with N.Y. Times and deleting emails from laptop
  - Stock price plummets
- Erhart notified SEC that Bank had falsely answered SEC subpoena, and other matters reported to SEC and OCC
- Employee covered by SOX if
  - “Reasonably believes” conduct was a violation
  - Employer knew or suspected protected activity
  - Employee suffers adverse action
  - Protected activity contributed to adverse action (inference based on temporal proximity)
Erhart v. Boll (cont’d)

- Allegations already reported in N.Y. Times, so court would not review whether Erhart violated “some privilege or right of privacy.”
- Erhart permitted to disclose information if “reasonably necessary” to pursue retaliation claim.
  - Strong public policy in favor of protecting whistle-blower who report fraud against the government.

Ex-Department of Justice Lawyer Faces Penalties in Leak of N.S.A. Program

The N.Y. Times Jan. 17, 2016

WASHINGTON — The District of Columbia bar is pursuing ethics charges against a former Department of Justice lawyer who has said he was one of the sources for a 2005 article in The New York Times about the National Security Agency’s program of wiretapping without warrants.

Lawyer concerned that certain warrants received “special Treatment” at FISA Court that violated the law

Admitted violation of Rule 1.6, accepted public censure

You cannot ignore the obvious

Rule 1.0(k)(or 1.0(f)): knowledge can be inferred from circumstances

“An individual was ‘willfully ignorant of the offense’ if the individual did not investigate the possible occurrence of unlawful conduct despite knowledge of circumstances that would lead a reasonable person to investigate whether unlawful conduct had occurred.”

FRCP 26: Make a reasonable inquiry.

. . . the organization will be allowed a reasonable period of time to conduct an internal investigation. In addition, no reporting is required . . . if the organization reasonably concluded, based on the information then available, that no offense had been committed.

Advocate or Conscience?

• Model Rule 2.1
  – Exercise independent professional judgment
  – In addition to law, consider moral, economic, social, psychological, and political factors
• Model Rule 3.1
  – No frivolous actions, but
  – Can defend vigorously
Rule 8.4: Misconduct

Maintaining The Integrity Of The Profession
Rule 8.4 Misconduct

It is professional misconduct for a lawyer to:

. . . (g) engage in conduct that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know is harassment or discrimination on the basis of race, sex, religion, national origin, ethnicity, disability, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, marital status or socioeconomic status in conduct related to the practice of law. This paragraph does not limit the ability of a lawyer to accept, decline or withdraw from a representation in accordance with Rule 1.16. This paragraph does not preclude legitimate advice or advocacy consistent with these Rules.

Adopted 8/16 by ABA house of Delegates by overwhelming majority. But only adopted in Vermont, other states have similar, but narrower rules.

Opposition by Christian Legal Society and Federalist Society. Argument NIFLA v. Becerra (6/18) ruled that there was no rule against “professional speech.” All regulations based on the content of speech subject to strict scrutiny. More leeway to regulate conduct that incidentally involves speech.

Code of Ethics for Compliance & Ethics Professionals

• Obey spirit and letter of the law (prevent misconduct, cooperation, take action if aware of misconduct)

• Serve employing organizations with highest sense of integrity (assist in complying with law, investigate allegations, advise senior management, no retaliation, confidentiality, no conflicts of interest)

• Strive to uphold integrity and dignity of the profession (act with honesty, protect confidentiality, no false statements, maintain education)

• [Full text at end]

Legal advice

• Communication within scope of duties

• For purpose of obtaining legal (not business) advice

• Work product: Is litigation anticipated?

• Self-Evaluative Privilege: Nope

- No attorney-client privilege or work product protection for investigation conducted by Office of Business Conduct.
- Investigation required by law and corporate policy, not for purpose of obtaining legal advice or assistance in legal proceeding.
- Reversed: investigation to obtain facts and ensure compliance with law conducted under auspices of legal department acting in legal capacity.
- Involve lawyers in investigations at early stage.
- Investigators should report to lawyers.
- Can disclose nonprivileged facts without waiving privilege.

Texas Brine v. Dow Chemical

- E.D. La. 2017: communication must be confidential, to a lawyer or his subordinate, for primary purpose of securing legal opinion, legal services, or assistance in legal proceeding.
- No privilege when in-house counsel merely copied on emails.

- Orally disclosing summaries of witness interviews were functional equivalent of underlying notes and memoranda.
- DOJ may demand full cooperation: specificity and detail for mitigation.
- Specify that disclosure is only fact, and not substance of any privileged communications.
Are compliance programs privileged?

• Should they be?

Attorney-Client Privilege

• Client requests legal advice = creates privilege
  – Client wants business advice: no privilege
  – Mixed?
• Client is the company. What happens when compliance investigation requires interviews of employees?
  • Upjohn: advise employee that lawyer represents company, the company controls the privilege
  • Model rules allow joint representation
  • Penn State GC sued for malpractice for representing individual administrators and the University in GU investigation of child molestation

Former Employees

• Upjohn: No distinction between current and former employees
• Problem: How to get historical knowledge?
  – More thorough exit interviews?
  – Should be key part of compliance program.
  – How to learn what is working.
  – Get honest reports on problem managers when no longer anything to fear.
Crime-Fraud Exception

- Communications made in furtherance of a crime or fraud are outside the claim of attorney-client privilege (and may be disclosed). Required PF showing of elements of ongoing crime or fraud. Not proof beyond a reasonable doubt. Often in camera review of materials by judge before deciding.
- Manafort & Gates former attorney ordered to testify before GJ regarding limited aspects of representation relating to allegedly misleading representations to the DOJ regarding work on behalf of Ukraine.
- In re Grand Jury #3 (3rd Cir. 2017)
  - There must be a reasonable basis to suspect (1) that the lawyer or client was committing or intending to commit a crime or fraud, and (2) that the attorney work product was used in furtherance of the alleged crime or fraud.
  - No punishment for merely thinking about a bad act
  - Unclear what acts will qualify as actual use of legal advice in furtherance of fraud.

No good deed goes unpunished . . .

- Michael Cohen pleads guilty to making false statements, tax evasion, and campaign finance violations (United States v. Cohen, No. 1:18-cr-00602, SDNY 8/21/18)
- Per Lanny Davis: Cohen testified under oath that Trump directed him to commit a crime.
  - Was there a duty of confidentiality to Trump? (not if business advice)
  - Could Cohen implicate Trump to defend himself? (maybe)
  - If conversations were privileged, was privilege wiped out by crime-fraud exception? (unclear)
- Conviction of felony = automatic disbarment.

The Apple Compliance Monitor’s 3d Report

- Still some resistance to providing information sought
- Argues about intrusiveness
- Claims that portions of compliance program, such as the risk assessment, are privileged and need not be disclosed
Domestic Drywall Antitrust Litigation
MDL No. 2437 (E.D. Pa. Oct. 9, 2014)

- Defendant seeks to prevent discovery of compliance program, arguing that it met the technical requirements for privilege (a communication maintained in confidence for the purpose of providing legal advice between privileged persons).
- The court disagreed:
  - Privilege limited to legal advice leading to a decision by the client.
  - Antitrust program was general, did not contain any specific advice, was more akin to a reference or instructional guide, and was primarily a business policy.
  - Policy not maintained in confidence:
    - Distributed to more than 120 employees
    - Posted on intranet site
    - Not labeled as confidential or privileged.

In re Sulfuric Acid Antitrust Litigation

- Antitrust compliance manuals contained a series of hypothetical questions posed that were distributed to marketing, sales, and production management employees.
- Certain portions of compliance manuals not privileged, since they did not reveal client confidences and were nothing more than an articulation of company policies.
- Hypotheticals not privileged:
  - Influenced by actual cases or were entirely the product of counsel’s imagination.
  - Did not contain any client confidences

In re Loestrin 24 Fe Antitrust Lit.
MDL No. 2472 (D.R.I. Nov. 29, 2017)

- Request to produce all policies, whenever created, related to antitrust compliance, as well as business conduct or ethics standards.
- Plaintiffs want every version of every such policy ever created by any of the covered entities.
- Court limits production or time period surrounding formation of agreements at issue, instead of back to the beginning of time.
Miller v. Smith Barney
- Internal compliance manuals were not privileged
  - Disclosed in prior litigation
  - Required to be maintained by the NYSE and NASD (and thus could not be deemed confidential)
  - As a compendium of operating procedures and rules, not considered to be legal opinions.
- The fact that they were authored by an attorney was not the test of the privilege's applicability.

O'Brien v. Board of Ed. of New York
- Hypothetical questions were put to counsel
- The answers revealed the mental processes of the clients and various alternative strategies, all of which was entitled to protection

ABA: Can’t avoid confidentiality rule by claiming scenarios are theoretical if they aren’t (3/18)
- Rule 1.6 might provide an exception for information that is publicly and generally known
- “A violation of Rule 1.6(a) is not avoided by describing public commentary as a ‘hypothetical’ if there is a reasonable likelihood that a third party may ascertain the identity or situation of the client from the facts set forth in the hypothetical.”
- “Hence, if a lawyer uses a hypothetical when offering public commentary, the hypothetical should be constructed so that there is no such likelihood.”
Is a compliance program evidence of anything?

• Not the law: The judge instructions the jury.
• Can’t admit the compliance program since might mislead jury

Internal Investigations & Individual Liability

• Yates Memo (9/9/15)
• To be eligible for any cooperation credit, corporations must provide to the Department all relevant facts about the individuals involved in corporate misconduct.
• Both criminal and civil corporate investigations should focus on individuals from the inception of the investigation.
• Liability for directors? SEC thinks that directors should exercise actual oversight of management, not to serve as mere figureheads or rubber stamps.
  – Involvement in wrongdoing?
  – Blind eye?

Antitrust Division Doesn’t Like to Give Credit for Compliance Programs
U.S. Attorney’s Manual

“It is entirely proper in many investigations for a prosecutor to consider the corporation’s pre-indictment conduct, e.g., voluntary disclosure, cooperation, remediation or restitution, in determining whether to seek an indictment. However, this would not necessarily be appropriate in an antitrust investigation, in which antitrust violations, by definition, go to the heart of the corporation’s business. With this in mind, the Antitrust Division has established a firm policy, understood in the business community, that credit should not be given at the charging stage for a compliance program, and that amnesty is available only to the first corporation to make full disclosure to the government.”

Roundtable on Criminal Antitrust Compliance
(April 9, 2018)

• “Discussion to explore the issue of corporate antitrust compliance and its implications for criminal antitrust enforcement policy.”
• “Corporate compliance is key to the Antitrust Division’s ultimate goals of preventing and uncovering criminal antitrust violations and protecting consumers and small businesses,” said Assistant Attorney General Makan Delrahim. The Division values continued engagement with corporate counsel, the antitrust bar, and other stakeholders on this important topic.

US v. Kayaba Industry

• Plea agreement recognizes compliance program implemented after criminal charges brought regarding alleged conspiracy to fix prices.
• Possible fine range: $103 – 207 million.
• DOJ sought $62 million based on cooperation and acceptance of responsibility and . . .
Kayaba Compliance Program

- Required training of senior management and all sales personnel
- One-on-one training with high risk jobs
- Testing to verify effectiveness of training
- Prior approval of all contacts with competitors & reporting of contacts
- Certify that all prices independently determined
- Hotline
- Discipline of employees

Changing the Culture

- From the moment the defendant corporation received notification of the government’s investigation, “management committed to instituting policies that would ensure that it would never again violate the antitrust laws.”
- President directed these new policies
- “[T]he company sought to change the culture of the company to prevent recurrence of the offense.”
- Employees involved in cartel demoted and no longer had sales responsibilities.

AU Optronics

- After conviction, DOJ recommends “Corporate Antitrust Compliance Program”
  - FCPA and antitrust violations
  - “[T]he government recommends that AUO be required to hire (at its own expense) an experienced, independent antitrust attorney as a compliance monitor to review its current compliance program and to ensure that AUO develops a program containing the recommended elements. This is the most reasonable, efficient, and effective way to accomplish the vital task of creating a legitimate, non-criminal business culture at AUO for the first time and thereby create a foundation for good corporate citizenship and a necessary safeguard against future collusion.”
- No auditing requirement; no incentives requirement
- Monitor (Tarun), appointed for 3 years, likes ICC Toolkit.
DOJ Fraud Section FCPA Pilot Program
(April 5, 2016 through ?)

• Timely and appropriate remediation
  – “Implementation of an effective compliance and ethics program”;
  – “appropriate discipline of employees, including those identified by the disclosing company as responsible for the misconduct, and a system that provides for the possibility of disciplining others with oversight of the responsible individuals”; and
  – “any additional steps that demonstrate recognition of the seriousness of the disclosing company’s misconduct, acceptance of responsibility for it, and the implementation of measures to reduce the risk of repetition of such misconduct, including measures to identify future risk.”

• See also SEC FCPA Resource Guide
Compliance Officer Can be Part of the Violation

- Robert Riley, VP Regulatory Affairs & Chief Compliance Officer of AbTox, Inc.
- Submitted false or misleading data regarding safety of sterilizer units.
- Judge Castillo in United States v. Caputo, 456 F. Supp. 2d 970, 984-85 (N.D. Ill. 2006): "Caputo selected Riley to serve as AbTox’s Chief Compliance Officer for all the wrong reasons. Caputo knew that he could manipulate and dominate Riley based on his prior personal and business experiences with him. Riley did not have any real training as a compliance officer. . . . Riley aided and abetted Caputo’s illegal marketing plans. Riley chose to use whatever regulatory expertise he had to further, shield, and cover up the offenses proven at trial."

Lawyer Can be Part of Violation

- Turing Pharmaceuticals increased price of drug by more than 5000%
- CEO Martin Shkreli charged with securities fraud
- Outside counsel and corporate secretary, Evan Greebel, indicted for conspiracy, aiding and abetting the conduct of Shkreli.
- Gatekeeper concept: those with a direct, formal governance authority
  - In-house lawyer should serve as “gatekeeper” to protect company
  - Also includes directors, public accounting firms, outside counsel

Corporate Manager Can be Liable: Texas v. Morello

- State sued member/manager of LLC for violations of Texas Water Code (groundwater contamination) based on LLC’s failure to satisfy compliance plan accompanying its hazardous waste permit.
- Tex. Ct. App.: Liability protection under Tex. Bus. Org. Code. State failed to show that failures to satisfy compliance plan were the type of “tortious or fraudulent” acts for which corp. officers can be held personally liable
- Tex. S. Ct.: Rev’d. Notwithstanding statutory language, this individual liable based on both the Water Code and the individual’s own actions, which subject him to liability regardless of whether he was acting as an agent of the LLC.
Accountants warned: Felonies are forever
Houston Chronicle (Mar. 20, 2013)

• Helen Sharkey: 30 days in prison for conspiracy to commit securities fraud.
• “Did I feel in my gut it was wrong? Absolutely. Did I think it was illegal? No way,” she said.
• Accountant as gatekeeper?

Lawyer as Compliance Officer?

• How do things get done?
• Lawyer can make noisy withdrawal. Can others?
• HHS: GC can’t be compliance officer

Lawyer as your gladiator?
Lawyer as your confidential advisor.

- Except in investigations, compliance program should be as open as possible.
- Lawyer must maintain client confidences. Cannot use information gained from prior representation in a way adverse to the former client, unless consent or "generally known." Rule 1.9; Formal Opinion 479
- Public availability not enough; must be generally known in the relevant geographic area or widely recognized in the former client’s industry, profession or trade.
- If you blog, can't reveal confidential information. Rule 1.6; Formal Opinion 480.

Who is the client? Usually the company.

Poster Children: Violation Based on the “Compliance Officer” Title and Careless Attestations

- Mark Kipnis – Hollinger
  - 2007 – Conrad Black and others convicted
  - Kipnis did not get any money from the fraud
  - Judge Amy St. Eve: Kipnis was not the least culpable person in the fraud
  - No jail, but 5 years probation, loss of law license.
  - 2010: S. Ct. overturns convictions based on "honest services fraud".
- Christi Sulzbach – Tenet
  - Resigned 2003
  - Litigation continued until 2010
  - But took home huge compensation

Theranos and Its Counsel

- Blood testing device never worked
- Board members never inquired
- David Boies (attorney & board member) used intimidation to stop Theranos whistleblowers
- Previously worked to suppress stories about Harvey Weinstein including hiring undercover investigators to investigate reporters

"You don’t know all the facts when you take on a client . . . but once you do, you have a duty of loyalty. You can’t represent them halfway. If, as a lawyer you start to value how you are going to look to the media, as opposed to how your client will look, then you should find a new profession."

Lawyers and Compliance

• Lawyer as ethical gatekeeper?
• Concern about image rather than ethics?
• Should a lawyer have a financial stake in a client?
  – Necessary for start-ups?
  – Every employee has an interest in keeping job.
• Should a lawyer be a board member?
  – Defending interests of management
  – vs. fiduciary duty to protect interests of investors

General Counsel as Chief Compliance Officer according to Sen. Grassley: “It doesn’t take a pig farmer from Iowa to smell the stench of conflict in that arrangement.”

Whatever our role . . .

. . . let’s not forget to bring home the compliance “bacon”
Thank you!

Code of Professional Ethics for Compliance and Ethics Professionals (Society of Corporate Compliance & Ethics)

Principle 1: Obligations to the Public

Compliance and ethics professionals (CEPs) should abide by and promote compliance with the law and the aims of the laws governing their employing organization's conduct and exemplify the highest ethical standards in their professional conduct in order to contribute to the public good.

R1.1 CEPs shall not aid, abet or participate in misconduct.

Commentary: The CEP’s actions to prevent misconduct must, of course, be legal and ethical. Where a CEP has done what he or she can to prevent misconduct within the bounds of the law and business ethics, but is nonetheless unsuccessful in preventing misconduct, he or she should refer to Rule 1.4.

R1.2 CEPs shall take such steps as are necessary to prevent misconduct by their employing organizations.

Commentary: While the role of the CEP in a government investigation may vary, the CEP shall never obstruct or lie in an investigation.

R1.3 CEPs shall exercise sound judgment in responding to or cooperating with all official and legitimate government investigations of or inquiries concerning their employing organizations.

Commentary: The duty of a compliance and ethics professional goes beyond a duty to the employing organization, inasmuch as his/her duty to the public and to the profession includes prevention of organizational misconduct. The CEP should exhaust all internal means available to deter his/her employing organization, its employees and agents from engaging in misconduct. The CEP should escalate matters to the highest governing body as appropriate, including whenever: a) directed to do so by that body, e.g., by a board resolution; b) escalation to management has proved ineffective; or c) the CEP believes escalation to management would be futile. CEPs should consider resignation only as a last resort, since CEPs may be the only remaining barrier to misconduct. A letter of resignation should set forth to senior management and the highest governing body of the employing organization in full detail and with complete candor all of the conditions that necessitate his/her action. In complex organizations, the highest governing body may be the highest governing body of a parent corporation.

SCCE Ethics Code (cont’d.)

R1.4.1 In the course of their work, CEPs become aware of any decision by their employing organization which, if implemented, would constitute misconduct, the professional shall: (a) refuse to consent to the decision; (b) escalate the matter, including to the highest governing body, as appropriate; (c) if serious issues remain unresolved after exercising “a” and “b”, consider resignation; and (d) report the decision to public officials when required by law.

Commentary: The duty of a compliance and ethics professional goes beyond a duty to the employing organization, inasmuch as his/her duty to the public and to the profession includes prevention of organizational misconduct. The CEP should exhaust all internal means available to deter his/her employing organization, its employees and agents from engaging in misconduct. The CEP should escalate matters to the highest governing body as appropriate, including whenever: a) directed to do so by that body, e.g., by a board resolution; b) escalation to management has proved ineffective; or c) the CEP believes escalation to management would be futile. CEPs should consider resignation only as a last resort, since CEPs may be the only remaining barrier to misconduct. A letter of resignation should set forth to senior management and the highest governing body of the employing organization in full detail and with complete candor all of the conditions that necessitate his/her action. In complex organizations, the highest governing body may be the highest governing body of a parent corporation.
SCCE Ethics Code (cont'd.)

Principle II: Responsibilities to the Employing Organization

Compliance and ethics professionals (CEPs) should serve their employing organizations with the highest sense of integrity, exercise unbiased judgment on their behalf, and promote effective compliance and ethics programs.

R2.1 CEPs shall serve their employing organizations in a timely, competent and professional manner.

Commentary: CEPs are expected to be experts in every field of knowledge that may contribute to an effective compliance and ethics program. CEPs venturing into areas that require additional expertise shall obtain that expertise by attending educational training or through working with others with such expertise. CEPs shall have current and general knowledge of all relevant fields of knowledge that reasonably might be expected to be addressed by the compliance and ethics program. CEPs may remain current by pursuing opportunities for continuing education and professional development.

R2.2 CEPs shall ensure to the best of their abilities that employing organizations comply with all relevant laws.

Commentary: While CEPs should exercise a leadership role in compliance assurance, all employees have the responsibility to ensure compliance.

---

SCCE Ethics Code (cont'd.)

R2.3 CEPs shall keep senior management and the highest governing body informed of the status of the compliance and ethics program, both as it is the implementation of the program and about areas of compliance risk.

Commentary: CEPs shall keep senior management and the highest governing body informed of the status of the compliance and ethics program, both as it is the implementation of the program and about areas of compliance risk.

R2.4 CEPs shall not aid or abet retaliation against any employee who reports actual, potential or suspected misconduct, and shall strive to implement procedures that ensure the protection from retaliation of any employee who reports actual, potential or suspected misconduct.

Commentary: CEPs should preserve to the best of their ability, consistent with other duties imposed on them by this Code of Ethics, the anonymity of reporting employees, if such employees request anonymity. Further, they shall conduct the investigation of any actual, potential or suspected misconduct with utmost discretion, being careful to protect the reputations and identities of those being investigated.

---

SCCE Ethics Code (cont'd.)

R2.5 CEPs shall not permit loyalty to individuals in the employing organization to interfere with or supersede the duty of loyalty to the employing organization and/or the superior in the employing organization. CEPs shall not permit loyalty to individuals in the employing organization to interfere with or supersede the duty of loyalty to individuals in the employing organization. CEPs shall not permit loyalty to individuals in the employing organization to interfere with or supersede the duty of loyalty to individuals in the employing organization. CEPs shall not permit loyalty to individuals in the employing organization to interfere with or supersede the duty of loyalty to individuals in the employing organization.

Commentary: CEPs shall serve their employing organizations in a timely, competent and professional manner.

---

SCCE Ethics Code (cont'd.)

R2.6 CEPs shall not permit loyalty to individuals in the employing organization to interfere with or supersede the duty of loyalty to individuals in the employing organization.

Commentary: CEPs shall serve their employing organizations in a timely, competent and professional manner.

---
SCCE Ethics Code (cont’d.)

R2.8 CEPs shall not mislead employing organizations about the results that can be achieved through the use of their services.

Commentary: CEPs should not create unreasonable expectations with respect to the impact or results of their services.

Principle III: Obligations to the Profession

Compliance and ethics professionals (CEPs) should strive, through their actions, to uphold the integrity and dignity of the profession, to advance the effectiveness of compliance and ethics programs, and to promote professionalism in compliance and ethics.

R3.1 CEPs shall support their professional activities, including investigations of misconduct, with honesty, integrity and diligence.

Commentary: CEPs shall not agree to unreasonable limits that would interfere with their professional ethical and legal responsibilities. Reasonable limits include those that are imposed by the employing organization’s resources or management and that are necessary to complete an investigation of misconduct. CEPs shall not agree to unreasonable limits that would interfere with their professional ethical and legal responsibilities. Reasonable limits include those that are imposed by the employing organization’s resources or management and that are necessary to complete an investigation of misconduct.

R3.2 CEPs shall not disclose without consent or compulsory legal process confidential information about the business affairs or technical processes of any present or former employing organization. Such disclosure could prejudice the profession or impair the ability of compliance and ethics professionals to obtain such information from others.

Commentary: CEPs need free access to information to function effectively and need the ability to communicate openly with any employee or agent of an employing organization. Open communication depends upon trust. Misuse and abuse of the work product of compliance and ethics professionals poses a serious threat to compliance and ethics programs. CEPs shall not use confidential information in any way that violates the law or their legal duties, including duties to their employing organizations. When adversaries in litigation or in organizations seek compelling written evidence, CEPs are encouraged to work with legal counsel to protect confidentiality. CEPs shall not use confidential information in any way that violates the law or their legal duties, including duties to their employing organizations.

R3.3 CEPs shall not make misleading, deceptive or false statements or claims about their professional qualifications, experience or performance.

R3.4 CEPs shall not attempt to falsely damage the professional reputation of other compliance and ethics professionals.

Commentary: In order to promote collegiality and civility in the profession, CEPs shall not make any statements concerning other CEPs that are derogatory in nature.

R3.5 CEPs shall maintain their competence with respect to developments within the profession, including knowledge of and familiarity with current theories, industry practices, and laws.

Commentary: CEPs shall pursue a reasonable and appropriate course of continuing education, including but not limited to participation in professional associations and attendance at conferences and workshops, to maintain and enhance their competence in their field of expertise.

R3.6 CEPs shall not make misleading, deceptive or false statements or claims about their professional qualifications, experience or performance.

R3.7 CEPs shall not attempt to falsely damage the professional reputation of other compliance and ethics professionals.

Commentary: In order to promote collegiality and civility in the profession, CEPs shall not make any statements concerning other CEPs that are derogatory in nature.

R3.8 CEPs shall maintain their competence with respect to developments within the profession, including knowledge of and familiarity with current theories, industry practices, and laws.

Commentary: CEPs shall pursue a reasonable and appropriate course of continuing education, including but not limited to participation in professional associations and attendance at conferences and workshops, to maintain and enhance their competence in their field of expertise.

R3.9 CEPs shall not make misleading, deceptive or false statements or claims about their professional qualifications, experience or performance.

R3.10 CEPs shall not attempt to falsely damage the professional reputation of other compliance and ethics professionals.

Commentary: In order to promote collegiality and civility in the profession, CEPs shall not make any statements concerning other CEPs that are derogatory in nature.

R3.11 CEPs shall maintain their competence with respect to developments within the profession, including knowledge of and familiarity with current theories, industry practices, and laws.

Commentary: CEPs shall pursue a reasonable and appropriate course of continuing education, including but not limited to participation in professional associations and attendance at conferences and workshops, to maintain and enhance their competence in their field of expertise.