What do we mean by Ethical Leadership?

DEFINITION

5

LEADERSHIP AND CULTURE

Ethical Leadership is the one element that leaders can't delegate.

6

6

LEADERSHIP AND CULTURE

Values drive culture, and culture drives behaviors – both good and bad.

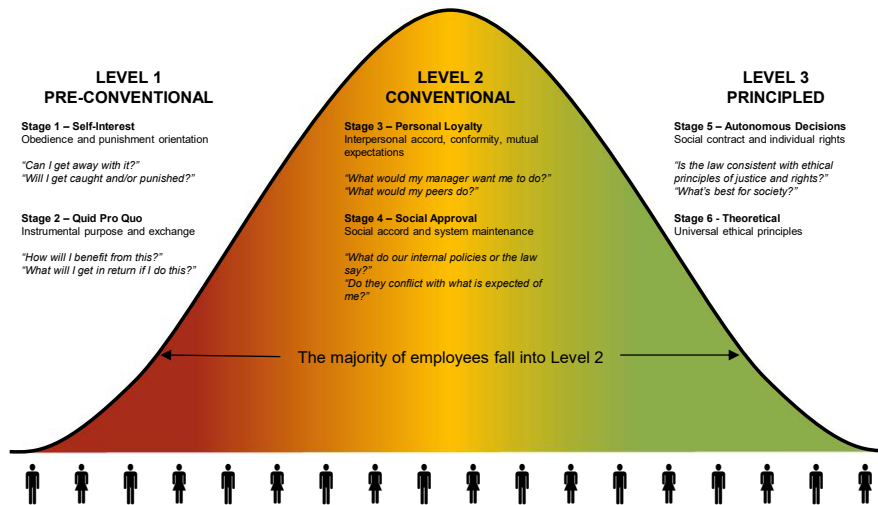

7

7

MORAL COGNITIVE DEVELOPMENT

Most people look outside themselves to determine right and wrong.

ETHICAL LEADERSHIP

Requires Leaders to consistently exemplify and amplify three core behaviors.

SOURCE: Adapted from L. Trevino, Managing Business Ethics, Sixth Edition

Ethical Leaders visibly demonstrate:

- 1. Personal Integrity
  - Honest and Trustworthiness
  - Caring and Concern for Others
  - Respect and Fairness
- 2. Ethical Role Modeling
  - Authentic ethical behavior and decision-making processes
  - Open, honest, inclusive and transparent two-way communication
  - Consistent and constant messaging on Integrity and ethical behavior
  - Promotion of a speak-up culture and non-retaliation
- 3. Ethical Management
  - Sets standards and expectations for ethical behavior
  - Holds people accountable for ethical lapses
  - Uses rewards and recognition to celebrate ethical successes
  - Uses punishment to discipline ethical lapses and poor management
  - Hires, develops and promotes for Integrity and ethical behavior

HIGH ETHICAL CULTURES

Ethical Leadership encourages ethical behavior and reporting.

14

14

ACTIVATING ETHICAL CULTURE

Ethical Leadership develops role-models that influence positive behaviors.

	HEARING	SEEING	DOING
Major drivers that shape culture and shared values	Hearing something from people I trust	Seeing persuasive evidence from managers and peers	Experiencing something myself
Translating shared values into actions	Knowing what to do and how	Seeing role models to emulate	Acquiring the necessary skills, tools and resources
Building confidence and reinforcing behaviors	Highlighting peers who are succeeding	Seeing the value and benefit from decisions made	Architecting positive reinforcement from peers and managers
Building advocacy at scale and driving culture	Knowing that something enhances my identity and reputation	Seeing recognition and rewards for speaking-up and taking action	Enabling me to share my opinions and experiences openly
