

Risk Assessment: Foundation for Building an Effective Ethics & Compliance Program

Judy Spain, Professor,
Business Law, Eastern
Kentucky University

Risk assessments are the heart of an effective ethics and compliance program. Assessments build the framework upon which your program operates. With them, you create a system that not only finds compliance issues but also works to prevent those issues from occurring. Without them, your entity will always just be reactive and possibly star in tomorrow's headlines.

This web conference will be divided into several components:

- Describing a universal model to identify your entity's universe of risk
- Explaining the assessment process
- Using examples to walk through each assessment step on the path to understand how assessment feeds into a functioning compliance and ethics program
